BIKE LAWS The new pushbike laws r work'n I have seen 10 cyclists with no helmet just in 1 day? – RonnyJ I am sorry to say it doesn't matter what laws you create for cyclist vs. cars, the two just don't mix on the road and were never meant to, accidents will always happen. gp Bikes — when I was young you weren't allowed to ride bikes on the footpath — including children. So now they need the road and the footpath, and we have to look out for them on the road. Who's looking out for the pedestrians who have the share the footpath?

Bugger the measurements, long as a bike rider and my car don't collide, that's good enough for me. Who's going to do the measuring anyway. — Justine OK so now the cars have to be 1 meter away from the bikes. Heres an idea. They have a bike lane and they ride on the line closest to the cars. Lets put a second line they have to stay within 6 inches from the gutter. Their wheels are only an inch wide ... Makes sense Please explain how they are going to find and fine the law breaking pushbike riders. – rocket TROUBLE BREWING Re the temperature of coffee. It is meant to be around 65 degrees. Any hotter and the flavour is less. — Barista of ten years plus A good coffee is not meant to be scalding hot as it negates the flavour. Coffee is not a soup or a tea so if you want it extra hot just ask. Coffee is like wine, some people wouldn't have a clue what a good 1 should taste like. Baristas have to make coffee to a certain temp of 65 to 70 degrees, most people these days like to drink their coffee so it doesn't burn their mouths, myself I like my coffee hot so I ask the Barista to make it hotter for me AND THE REST To the unknown Chat Roomer who suggested G/Coast tourism boost, a State of Origin on the coast C/Bus stadium capacity 25 Thousand Suncorp 53 Thousand & sells out in 20 miss. The footprint for an elevated light rail like Dubai, and many other country's is so small, and it can all be precast off site except the 4m square foundation. Why would you compete with cars in the same space. I think the planers need to get out more! — Glyn I thought the annoying & aggressive touts had been driven out of Surfers! Apparently not! Ciao What happened to NBN playing the opposite game to ch 9 on fri nights. Give us back the choice. So sick of watching the stinkin' broncos. Coaster They should have started the light rail at the Helensvale train station first. The way it is now you have to catch a bus from the tram to train. Genius.

A child's education is more important than what school they live closer too. Sort this rubbish out Newman. ICan somebody tell me how 36,000 jobs will be created by the Cruise Ship terminal? What will this number of people be doing on a day-to-day basis.? Can't imagine that many people altogether except at a footy match. Where would they park their cars while they are at work? My mind boggles. — Cranky Gran Arthur Sinodinos via his answers in the ICAC Investigation that he has a dreadful memory. I hope he remembers to put his clocks back on Sunday.

When the Govt has sold all our major assets, ours not theirs, it will then be necessary to rent them back. What's next, toll fees to use our suburban streets, walk ways and parks.

NW @ S, Its called a Legend of Bogan and a Flock of Surfers, BAH! - The pottsvillian Is the NRL serious with expelling the player that made the Alex McKinnon tackle for 7 weeks? As if Jordan wouldn't feel bad enough, they find him guilty of a tackle that had no malice in it at all. I find him not guilty as there is a thousand tackles worse than that every year that don't go on report. The NRL should amend the decision and find themselves guilty and hang their heads in shame. Thoughts r with the McKinnon family and friends. — Treeman Campbell Newman and all Qld politicians after your massive obscene pay rises don't ever tell us again Qld is broke and there's no money! — Komrade Karl Saw adults get off bus at nerang and Edmund rice dr and cross busy street illegally while students used traffic lights crossing wonder who is leading by example now.
